Delegate to National Convention, Mrs. Matilda Wilcox, Newark.

Other out of town guests were: Mrs. Lizzie Wallen, Camden; Mrs. Christiana Corb, Nutley; Mrs. Mary Taylor, Vineland; Mrs. Anna Reese, Vineland.

One candidate was initiated and all the work of the ritual was performed, the Department officers expressing themselves as well pleased with the way the members of Glenwood Circle keep up the work.

They found the Circle in good working order and good financial condition. The reports showed that excellent relief work has been done throughout the year and that the Circle is a great aid to A. L. Robeson Post, No. 42, G. A. R., in whose rooms the meetings are held.

The members of the official party went to Vineland today to visit the Soldiers' Home, by invitation of Commander Shields. This evening they will conduct the inspection of the Circle at Millville, this making the tenth inspection for this tour. Vineland Circle was inspected Wednesday. On Tuesday Hatch Circle, of Camden, was inspected, there being 200 or more persons present. There were guests from Philadelphia present and fifteen Sons of Veterans, who were all in uniform, were obligated. Next week the officers will start on a tour of North Jersey, where fourteen Circles are to be inspected.

Following the close of the meeting there was a general social time and then the ladies served supper, the members of the Post being present as well as the Department officers of both organizations. There were oysters and an abundance of other good things to which full justice was done.

In the evening at the meeting of A. L. Robeson Post a number of their Department officers were present to pay a fraternal visit. They included:

Department Commander John W. Bodine, Camden.

Senior Vice Commander Forman J. Reynolds, Newark.

Assistant Adjutant General George Barrett, Camden.

Chief of Staff Harry Hartshorn, Camden.

Rev. A. L. Winans, who was pastor of the First Congregational Church, Millville, for twenty-seven years, was also present.

After the meeting there was a general social time by members of both organizations.
